THE BULL FIGHT.

The Final Event of the Season Attracts a Large Crowd to Matamoras, Which Witnesses Some Brilliant Work.

The final bull fight of the season at the Matamoras bull ring Sunday afternoon attracted a large crowd, which witnessed some brilliant work on the part of the competing matadors, Silverio Chico and Espartero. Especially was this true of the latter who seemed to be absolutely without fear in the ring, patting the ferocious bulls on the jaws as they rushed at him, laying his cap between their horns, and performing other equally daring stunts.

Four of the ferocious Guanama bulls were fought to the death and the crowd went wild as the fight progressed. Only one horse was killed in the ring while others were more or less wounded by the savage bulls.

A special excursion train came in at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon, bringing about 100 people who wanted to see the bull fight. As soon as the train stopped a scramble for the ferry began, and it was only a short time until all trace of strangers was lost in the distance on the Mexican side. They returned about 9 o'clock and at 10 the train pulled out on the return trip.

Both visitors and resident seemed to have been very well pleased with the final event of the season.

Beeville Picayune.

Burt E. Hinkley, district manager of the Woodmen Circle and special organizer of the W. O. W. for Texas, was in the city Wednesday, and paid this office a pleasant call.

Dr. S. H. Bell of Brownsville passed through Beeville Tuesday night on the "Cannon Ball" en route to San Antonio for a week's stay. He will stop off here for a few days on his way home.

Walter A. Haak, who learned railroading and telegraphy under Agent D. B. Saffold here, has been made station agent at Samfordyce, a new town on the St. Louis, Brownsville & Mexican Ry., after holding the position of clerk here a year or so. His friends here rejoice with him in his promotion.

J. S. Hall and family, father and two brothers, Ansel McKinney, E. C. Noble, Asa Jones, Lock Adkins, Tom Langston, J. C. Wood and possibly others composed the Beeville crowd to take advantage of the excursion to Brownsville and Matamoras last Friday. They report a good time with plenty doing.

The Remedy at Hand.

(From the Fort Worth Star.)

Public indignation has turned with the force of a destroying avalanche in the direction of the fake reformer. It is a good sign.

When the fake reformer is uncovered nine times in ten the slanderous fiend with the muck rake is revealed.

There is great room and greater demand for the real reformer. So far few such reformers have appeared of recent days, in our public life. But there never was a condition or an exigency in our National career without the advent of some man or men great enough to save the country from impending disaster.

The conditions of the hour at which we all complain are very much exaggerated, and the remedy for them is nearer at hand than many of us imagine.

This remedy is in the people themselves. It will not come through the enactment of a multitude of new laws, but rather in the enforcement of the laws we already have.

There is not a State government in the country that can not put down graft and reform its public services if it will only enforce its laws.

There is not a municipal government in the country that can not protect its franchises from waste and make public service corporations do their duty, if only the city council is composed of competent and honest men.

And both the nation and the State can protect the people from the greed of the trusts and from every combination of avarice and oppression, if only the courts are honest and the servants of the people alert.

Japs for Railroad Work.

According to report the Southern Pacific in Mexico is preparing to import into Mexico some 6000 Japanese laborers to work on the extension from Guaymas to Tapic.

The decision to import the Japanese was reached at a conference at Mazatlan between Epes Randolph president of the Rio Yaqui and Pacific railroad and personal representatives of E. H. Harriman, and Julian Morineau the legal representative of Mr. Randolph in Mexico.

The Southern Pacific is anxious to rush its extension, but has been unable to secure the labor in the republic.

As long as the heart is young and the thought is youthful, old age cannot touch you.—Success Magazine.

MANY SIGNERS.

Had the Bond of a Man Who Killed a Negro in His Daughter Room at Delia.

A dispatch from Mexia, of recent date, had the following:

The bail bond of A. J. Easterling of Delia, charged with the killing of the negro who entered the room of his daughter, was filed with the District Clerk a few days since.

It is unusual and unique in that it is the most extensively signed instrument every presented to the court. In addition to the principal, there are eighty-eight signatures—to the bond, forty-seven of the number being ladies. It appears that everyone who could conveniently do so attached his or her hand to the bond, thus testifying indorsement of Mr. Easterling's act in protecting his household. This act on the part of his neighbors and friends was voluntarily performed.

Parted by Skates.

And it came to pass there came a day when the young man with the lead pencil legs and high water pants bethought himself of the skating rink.

So he went out and when he came nigh unto his girl, he spake unto her saying: "Come, Mary; let us gird ourselves up and go hence to the rink, for behold I have been diligent in thy absence and have embezzled two coupons.

So they went, one with the other, for they loved each other with love, the greatness of which was like unto death.

And when the youth and maiden were coming into the rink, they saw divers other young men and maidens waltzing hither and thither and standing on their necks, and spreading themselves upon the floor to the four corners of the place.

And Mary was pleased thereat, for she saw the other maidens sticking to their escorts closer than boiler rivets. And she longed for some of the same agony.

So she prevailed on her lover to go and do likewise. And he went with a light heart, for he loved the sport because he had been there before and knew the whiciness thereof.

And after awhile he returned and took Mary's feet and fastened the skates thereon. And in like manner he did unto his own feet. Then they smiled one upon the other and went upon their wobbly way.

And it came to pass when they got out where the eyes of the multitude were upon them, Mary forgot herself and looked back. Now this was a grievous thing to do, for it was written upon the wall: "Thou shalt not look back when thou skatest, lest thy foot forsake thee and thou treadest upon thine ear." But Mary was full of joy and chocolate caramels, and remembered not these things.

So when she looked back her feet flew from under her and went up into the atmosphere and cut a star thereif, and descended with a great crash, and Mary sat down on the floor with a dull thud. And her fall was exceedingly hard, yea, great was the muchness thereof. So likewise had her lover spilled himself, but he hurt himself not.

Then Mary was wroth and she grew red in the countenance and answered saying: "Thou leadest me in slippery paths and when the floor riseth up and striketh me in a grievous place, thou comest not to my aid; yea, verily, we will remain together a little closer off."

And from that day even unto this she passeth him by on the other side of the street.—Selected.
